Council may discuss pay raises for four

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

It has been more than five years since any elected officials in Granite City have had a pay raise.

But that may soon change.

City Hall sources say a proposal to increase the salary for four elected city officials — the mayor, clerk, treasurer and street superintendent — will be presented at Tuesday night's City Council meeting.

While most city employees receive raises of about 3 percent each year, the mayor, city clerk and treasurer last received raises effective May 1991.

The salary of the street superintendent has not been increased since May 1, 1987.

Because state law prohibits elected officials approving a pay raise during the current term of office, the raises — if approved — would take effect next May 1 for the mayor, clerk and treasurer, whose terms expire next year.

The street superintendent's increase would not take effect until 1999, when current Street

Superintendent Jerry Lakin's term expires. Mayor Ron Selph's current salary is $47,000 annually. Several of his appointed employees earn more than that, including the chiefs and assistant chiefs of the police and fire departments, the superintendent of the wastewater treatment plant and the assistant superintendent of the wastewater treatment plant.

City Clerk Judy Whitaker and Treasurer Gail Valle each earn $37,000 per year. Ten appointed city officials — as well as several more firefighters and police officers — make more than that in a year.

Lakin makes $35,000 a year. He is the lowest-paid elected official in the city, even though he supervises department staffed by about 30 workers with a budget of $2.3 million.

The 14 city aldermen are paid $5,400 a year. They last received a raise in 1991, when aldermanic salaries doubled.

Specific information about the pay raise plan was not available Friday.

Employees push for costly early retirement plan

EDWARDSVILLE — Madison County Board members are looking for a way to diffuse pressure from employees pushing for an early retirement program that could cost $822,000.

State law requires counties to offer early retirement to all employees or none. Finance Committee chairman William Little, D-Alton, said it doesn't make fiscal sense for Madison County to offer such a program.

"We're one of the best counties in the state financially, and we're not ready to jeopardize that," Little said Thursday after a meeting of the Personnel and Finance committees.

Most committee members also expressed reluctance to approve the program. They put off a final vote until 8:30 a.m. Wednesday. A study ordered by the county from accounting firm Peat Marwick in St. Louis should be complete by then. The program would offer the opportunity to retire immediately to employees age 55 or older who have worked 25 years or more.

Board members said the pressure to approve such a program has been overwhelming. Board member Donald Rea, D-Granite City, said members have received numerous calls from employees supporting the incentives.

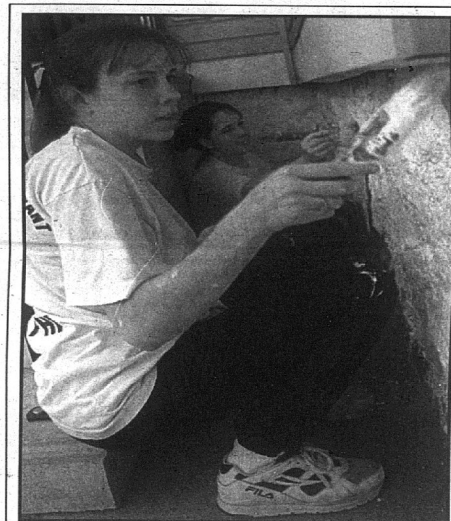

"After we make a decision, is there any way to issue a memo or something saying that it's over?" Rea asked other committee members.

"Yes, this (pressure) has got to stop," said board member Alan Dunstan, D-Troy.

According to the Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund, Madison County has 79 employees who would qualify for the program. A survey done earlier this year indicated 41 employees are interested.

If the 41 interested employees would take early retirement, the cost to the county over five years would be $2.9 million.

NHS students help renovate area home

Some of Granite City High School's best and brightest are pitching in to make the American Dream come true for others.

On Sept. 7, National Honor Society seniors from GCHS painted the exterior of a house as part of the Home Ownership Made Easier program.

Students had worked last month on tuck-pointing the foundation and preparing the bathroom walls for insulation and dry wall. NHS co-sponsors Andy Yurko and Mary Perdue-Tapp coordinated the effort with representatives of the HOME Foundation.

The HOME Foundation is a non-profit organization. When renovation is completed, the three-bedroom house at 2156 Adams St. will be rented to a local family and rent will be escrowed for up to two years.

Churches, church-based groups, schools, individuals, businesses and craftsmen have allowed HOME to extend a $17,400 loan from the Madison County Board while renovating the entire house. Some recent donors include Sherwin-Williams, exterior latex paint, HOOD'S, tub, vanity and toilet; RAM Construction and NHS, labor.

Board ruling appealed on township question

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

David Partney wants a circuit judge to put a referendum back on the November ballot in Granite City Township.

On Friday, Morgan Scrogins, Partney's attorney, filed an appeal of the Granite City electoral board's decision earlier this month to throw Partney's referendum petitions out because they contained too few valid signatures.

The appeal — or complaint for mandamus — asks a judge to throw out a ruling by the township electoral board and place the referendum on the ballot.

Petitions filed by Partney Aug. 19 purported to have 1,873 signatures to place the following question on the Nov. 5 ballot: "Should township organization be continued in the city of Granite City?"

Signatures of 1,792 registered voters — 10 percent of the registered voters residing in the township after the March primary election — were required to place the question on the ballot, the electoral board ruled.

Chief Deputy Township Assessor Debbie Gray filed an objection to the petitions and signatures Aug. 26 and the electoral board — Township Supervisor Bernie Hagnauer, Town Clerk Judy Whitaker and Trustee Casmer Skubish — heard the objection Aug. 29.

The electoral board ruled

that 664 signatures on the petitions were invalid, leaving only 1,209 valid signatures — 583 short of the number required.

Of the 664 signatures disqualified, 471 were obtained by two circulators who testified at the objection hearing that they were not registered to vote until after they had begun circulating petitions. State law requires petition circulators be registered voters.

The electoral board also ruled invalid 130 signatures by (See APPEAL, Page 12A)

Record goal sought

The Tri-Cities Area United Way announced its 1996 campaign goal of $1.1 million at the annual kickoff celebration breakfast Wednesday.

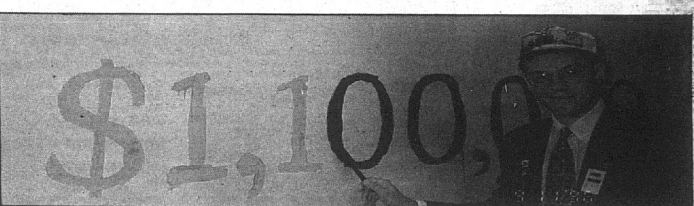

The goal is the highest ever set for a United Way drive in the Tri-Cities Area, chairman Dennis Orsey said.

About 300 United Way volunteers, business and labor leaders gathered for the kickoff celebration at the AMVETS Hall in Madison. Mike Hal-brook, an Eagle Scout, and Keith Croffoot, a 15-year-old battling hemophilia and AIDS, were among those that spoke at the event.

For more than 50 years, the Tri-Cities Area United Way has been the fund-raising arm for human care service agencies in the Granite City, Madison, Mitchell, Pontoon Beach and Venice communities. This

State Police investigating rape, beating

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

The Illinois State Police Department of Criminal Investigation is investigating the alleged rape and beating of a St. Louis woman found on the McKinley Bridge late Wednesday evening.

The woman claims a man who gave her a ride from East St. Louis beat her with an iron pipe and raped her at a secluded spot on the levee.

The case was originally turned over to the East St. Louis police, but was sent back to Venice.

Police Chief James E. Newsome said investigators from DCI took over after the exact location of the crime was established, and had been processing the crime scene Thursday.

According to reports, at about 11:10 p.m. Wednesday, police were dispatched to the bridge after a woman was reported running and asking passing vehicles for help.

When police arrived they found a 23-year-old woman bleeding "profusely" from a head wound. An ambulance was dispatched to the scene, and the woman was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center for treatment.

As of Friday morning she was still (See RAPE, Page 12A) organizing the display which will commemorate the city's century, as well as the diamond anniversary of St. Elizabeth Medical Center and the Granite City Park District.

BPW is itself observing a golden anniversary, president Kathy Clark said. We are pleased to accept the responsibility of coordinating the memorabilia display and to be involved in an event that will be touching so many local people. Shirley Ochoa, will chair the Unique clothing covers occupations, such as a nurse, maid or boiler uniform.

Registration will be from 10 a.m. to noon and entrants should provide their name and a description of the costume. At 2 p.m., contestants will parade in their outfits and each costume will be announced. Judges will select first, second- and third-place winners in each division: men, women, children ages 3-5, children ages 6-8 and children ages 9-11. For more information about the event, call Hopkins at 876-7715.

DNRS, formed in 1973, meets monthly to promote the preservation and maintenance of downtown homes and buildings, some of which date to the city's founding.

Memorabilia from Granite City's past will be on display in Price Center's new pro shop. The Business and Professional Women is

Other groups that will have exhibits are Belleville Area College, which has a Granite City campus, the Army Depot, Tri-City Port Authority, some churches, the Democratic Party and the Republican Party, and others.

A historical video which used hundreds of photos from Granite City's past, will be shown all day long. The video "Granite City: Its Past, Its Present and Its Future" was produced for Area College.

Man allegedly smashes car, then car's owner

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

A Granite City man was charged with criminal damage to property after he allegedly smashed a car window and then the owner's head with a pool cue early Friday morning.

Robert T. Howard, 20, of the 4100 block of Division Street, Granite City, was charged early Friday after he was arrested in the 1200 block of Madison Avenue.

According to reports police were sent to Besserman's Tavern, 1200 Iowa Street, about a report of a fight in progress.

When they arrived the fight had broken up. The alleged victim said he had a verbal confrontation with Howard over some money taken from the tavern's cash register.

After the confrontation Howard allegedly walked out of the bar with a pool cue and started striking the windshield of the victim's car.

The car owner came out, they had another verbal confrontation, and the two went back inside, where Howard allegedly struck the victim several times in the head.

Police at the scene noticed several marks on the victim's head.

The victim told police he fought back and was eventually able to stop Howard, who then fled the scene.

Later he was found in the 1200 block of Madison Avenue, and taken to St. Elizabeth Medicine Center in Granite City for treatment of his injuries.

A record check revealed Howard had several outstanding warrants from the Granite City police department.

In other matters, an East St. Louis man was arrested on an outstanding warrant after being stopped for speeding in the 300 block of McCambridge.

At about 3:55 a.m. Thursday, police arrested Fred A. Ward, 32, of the 3000 block of Lincoln, East St. Louis.

He was wanted by St. Clair County for failure to appear on a charge of aggravated assault with a deadly weapon. He was also charged with operating an uninsured motor vehicle and speeding.

He was released after posting $600 cash bond.

In a separate incident, Anthony J. Turner, 19, of the 2800 block of Idaho, Granite City, was charged with operating an uninsured motor vehicle and having an expired registration after being stopped in the 1300 block of Madison Avenue at about 10 a.m.

A record check showed he was also wanted by Granite City police for failure to appear on charges of improper passing.

Also on Thursday, Randall G. Boyer, 37, of the 2400 block of Sunbury Avenue, Granite City, turned himself in to police.

Boyer was wanted by Madison police for failure to appear on charges of operating an uninsured motor vehicle, failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident, improper lane usage and having an expired registration. He was also wanted on Collinsville charges of operating an uninsured motor vehicle.

Madison grants track easement

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

The Madison City Council approved allowing Gateway International Raceway a construction easement to allow equipment to cross city-owned land near Bend Road.

Mayor John Belleoff said the raceway, which is undergoing a $25 million renovation, recently purchased 20 acres of land on Bend Road to use for wetlands mitigation.

The new wetlands would replace other wetlands destroyed by the construction at the raceway, which recently opened its new drag strip and road tracks.

The council also approved going ahead with the cleanup of the Dumbur School property.

SIUE students asked to pay long-distance bills

EDWARDSVILLE — Students at SIUE who made bogus long-distance telephone calls still are being asked to "less up, although the amnesty period ended months ago.

"It would be wise for students who have obligations to come forward, although we cannot guarantee the same set of circumstances," said Nancy Belck, chancellor of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

At a news conference Wednesday, Belck said students who turn themselves in now would be involved in "plea bargaining" to determine payments and possible penalties.

"The police are ready to call in individuals with very strong cases. We want to make sure the cases are firm," she said.

University police are calling in at least three students this week to question them about their possible involvement in $1.1 million worth of fraudulent telephone calls, Belck said.

The bogus calls came to light this past September.

For two years, students had been dialing into the university's trunk line undetected, sometimes calling foreign countries.

During an amnesty period that ended Feb. 29, more than 1,000 students admitted making calls that totaled $200,000.

The students ran up individual bills ranging from 7 cents to more than $45,000.

In brief

Jan Bone, realtor associate of CVM Realty, has reached the $1 million mark in production.

Bone began her real estate career in June 1995 and has been associated with CVM Realty since December 1995.

Bone is a member of the Granite City Board of Realtors and belongs to the Southwestern Illinois Regional Multiple Listing Service. She and her husband, Danny, and their four sons are lifelong residents of the Granite City area.

The initials CVM stand for computerized visual marketing. This is an exciting, innovative and effective concept which benefits both buyers and sellers. When an owner lists their property with CVM, it is video taped. This allows a prospective buyer to preview property in the comfort of CVM's modern offices and then arrange a personal tour of the property. This video marketing concept accommodates the busy schedules of both buyers and sellers.

CVM Realty, located at 1735 Pontoon Road, has the largest staff of full-time realtors in Granite City.

Office hours are Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 7 p.m.; Saturday, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.; and Sunday, noon to 4 p.m.

Cathy Busch, broker associate of CVM Realty, has closed $2 million in real estate transactions.

She is a member of the Granite City Board of Realtors and the Southwestern Illinois Regional Listing Service.

After becoming a licensed Realtor in 1978, Busch has consistently been recognized as being a top producer. The Illinois Association of Realtors has awarded her with lifetime achievement recognition in the Bronze ($1 million), Silver ($2 million) and Gold ($3 million) awards for personal production. In 1995, the Illinois Association of Realtors presented her with the Platinum ($4 million) Award.

Busch also holds membership in the Minerva Women's Club, the Elkhettes Glik Stores, a 99-year-old retail firm, has announced the promotion of several associates.

Mary Pavlik has been promoted to children's buyer. Pavlik started as a sales associate at the St. Clair Square location in 1982 and has held many different positions with the company, including key associate, store manager, distributor and assistant buyer.

In May, Pavlik received a master's degree in business administration from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Tammy Jordan, a Granite City resident, has been promoted to manager of information systems and sales audit. Jordan has received several promotions during her eight years at Glik Stores.

The company operates 51 locations throughout Missouri, Illinois and Indiana.

Dr. E.L. Strotheide, a Granite City chiropractic physician, recently returned from Hot Springs, Ark., where he attended an educational seminar on Myofascial Release.

Myofascial Release is a special new therapy for treating tight muscular areas that limit a patient's movements. Another common problem that can also be successfully treated with this new technique is trigger points or "knots in the muscles."

The most common locations for these trigger points are between the shoulder blades and the spine, as well as the muscle that runs from the neck to the shoulder joint.

Strotheide says that athletes and people who use their arms a lot at work are susceptible to many of the painful conditions that can be helped by the Myofascial Release technique.

Strotheide's office is located at 3412 Nameoki Road in Granite City.

Inflation is key

Financial Focus is provided as a free service of the Granite City Journal and Jeff Prosser of Edward Jones.

Understand inflation and you'll know where to put your money.

In March 1980, inflation reached 14.6 percent, its highest point in almost half a century.

During that period of unprecedented rising prices, real estate investments seemed to offer a chance to beat inflation. You needed investments that provided annual returns of almost 15 percent just to stay even.

At that time, Dr. Gary Shilling, a respected economist and financial analyst, suggested in his book Is Inflation Ending? Are you Ready that inflation had peaked and would begin a steady decline. He further suggested that investors should change direction, moving from tangibles, such as real estate — which prospers during inflationary times — to financial assets.

Shilling was right. Those who correctly anticipated the end of runaway inflation and moved their assets accordingly prospered. The Dow Jones Industrial Average penetrated 1,000 and is now over 5,000.

Today, even with reasonable economic growth, many economists say the Federal Reserve has succeeded in controlling inflation. An average 3.5 percent inflation rate, which the country has experienced over the past five years, is manageable in a healthy economy.

Reasonable inflation results in controlled spending. During the 1970s and 1980s, Americans bought as soon as they could (or sooner), rather than run the risk of paying higher prices later.

Fortunately, more investors are beginning to understand inflation and how it affects their investment choices. In today's economy, people are investing more in financial assets than in property.

In 1995, for example, total mutual fund investment grew by $682.4 billion, or 30.6 percent. And, according to data compiled from Barron's and Dean Witter, more money was invested in stocks and mutual funds in 1995 than in residential real estate. This has not occurred since the early 1970s.

Does this mean that real estate is no longer a sound investment? Certainly not. In fact, more people are able to buy homes today because mortgage rates are affordably low. The difference is that during inflationary times, people purchased homes with the intent of quick resale for a hefty profit. With today's lower inflation, however, people are buying homes to live in and looking elsewhere for investment income.

BAC safety supervisor works in security for Olympics

When Linda Doerge returned from the Summer Olympics, she wore no medal around her neck.

What she did have was plenty of memories and newfound information from her experience as a security team member for the Centennial Olympic Games in Atlanta.

"Just getting to meet law enforcement people from around the world was interesting in itself," said Doerge of Glen Carbon, public safety supervisor for Belleville Area College's Granite City Campus.

Doerge arrived in Atlanta on July 2 for two weeks of training prior to the Olympics, which lasted from July 19 through Aug. 4. She returned home Aug. 6.

Doerge had applied for a spot on the security team by answering an ad in a law enforcement magazine. She had known since last November that her application had been approved.

During the ensuing months, she received information, almost on a weekly basis, from Olympic organizers.

But, she said, all of the information in the world could not have prepared her, or anyone else in Atlanta, for the bomb that ripped through the Olympic Centennial Park in the early morning hours of July 20. Doerge was five miles away, sound asleep at Morehouse College, where the security team was staying.

In fact, she was informed of the bombing by her husband, Charlie, who called her at 4 a.m. to make sure she was all right.

"He really wanted me to come home," said Doerge. But she said she had the same attitude as most everyone else at the Olympics: "I wasn't going to let one idiot scare me away," said Doerge.

Some security team members from other countries did leave after the bombing but not because of it, Doerge said. "They were unhappy with a lot of things, especially the accommodations. I don't want to say anything bad about Morehouse College, because it's not a bad place. It's just an older college," she said. "I think a lot of these people were expecting to stay in brand new facilities. And the transportation system wasn't the best. So, after the bombing, some of them said, 'that's it' and left."

Doerge, who worked at the bombing venue along with 11 other security team members, said the venue did receive two bombs after the bombing but nothing was found.

Doerge served as a sector leader, with responsibility for security in a certain section of the arena. She said the main security problem was not guns or bombs but pocket knives.

"There were no weapons of any type allowed in the arena because the spectators used the same entrance as the athletes," said Doerge. "Well, you know how Americans love their pocket knives. We didn't have any place to store them, so people either had to take them back out to their cars or just dispose of them. Most people understood when they found out the reason why. For the few who didn't, a Georgia police officer would walk up and that would usually take care of the situation."

Because of her work assignment, Doerge watched a lot of boxing though she's not really a fan of the sport. One of the benefits, however, of being a security guard was getting free tickets to other events. Doerge took advantage of that by taking in two sports she does like: field hockey and wrestling.

"I played field hockey in high school, and my son, Charlie, wrestles," said Doerge. When she wasn't working, Doerge became a tourist. She visited Centennial Park

"before it blew up" — and other interesting sites, including the Coca-Cola museum.

"It's kind of like (touring) Anheuser-Busch, except it was soda," said Doerge. "What was really neat was there was a testing room, where you could taste sodas made around the world."

Doerge said a lack of transportation prevented her from seeing too much outside of the Olympic area. Actually, she said, she and her fellow security team members were often lucky just to get to work and back.

"Sometimes, we'd be done working and the bus that was supposed to take us back to Morehouse was gone," said Doerge. "At one point, we did talk to somebody from ACOG (Atlanta Committee for the Olympic Games) that we were having problems and they said they would take care of it, but we felt like they were just blowing us off. Luckily, in those cases, we did find a bus driver who was nice enough to take us where we needed to go."

Despite the transportation problems and the park bombing, Doerge thoroughly said she enjoyed the Olympic experience.

"I'd like to go to Sydney (Australia, site of the 2000 Summer Olympics) in four years," she said, smiling.

SIU to ask Illinois for $291.2 million

Southern Illinois University will ask the state for $291.2 million in funding for the 1997-98 fiscal year, an increase of 7.3 percent over this year's operating budget.

The Board of Trustees on Thursday approved operating budget guidelines that the university will submit for consideration to the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

The state board's recommendations then will need approval from the state Legislature and Gov. Jim Edgar.

The request is a hike of nearly $19.9 million for the university, including a $4.5-million increase for the Edwardsville campus.

If the funding is granted, the budget for both campuses would provide for a 3-percent salary increase for all non-union employees and cover a 3-percent increase in the cost of supplies. The funding also would cover a projected 6-percent increase in utility bills and 11-percent hike in the cost of library materials.

Included in the request is $2.8 million for maintenance and repairs on both campuses. President Ted Sanders said deferred maintenance projects total more than $125 million in Carbondale and more than $50 million in Edwardsville, including $4.3 million to replace six cooling units at SIUE.

State legislators have not been willing to work together to fund state universities' capital projects, he said.

"Maintenance oftentimes is done on an emergency basis, incident after incident. We are not able to invest in ongoing maintenance of our infrastructure," said Sanders, noting that some problems are critical, such as recurring electrical difficulties at the Carbondale campus.

The university also is requesting $31.2 million for new buildings and equipment, $21.3 million for major renovations and $13.9 million for capital renewal projects.

Among the priorities is the perennial request for $23.8 million to plan and build a new engineering building in Edwardsville. Although funding for the building has been approved, the Legislature has not authorized a bond sale.

persons not registered to vote, 44 signatures of persons who do not reside in the township and 19 signatures that were illegible written decision filed Sept. 2, the electoral board also rejected a motion by Partney that the board members disqualify themselves from the hearing because they hold office in and receive paychecks from the township.

Hagauer earns $15,500 a year as supervisor. Whitaker receives $240 a year as town clerk and Stukish receives the same amount for his position as a trustee.

But state law provides that the three preside over the hearing, the board ruled.

"The fact that one's position and/or salary is being affected does not reflect one's opinion as to whether the township should be continued or should not continue in the Town of the City of Granite City," the board ruled.

Partney's appeal says the board was improperly impaneled; that the petition circulators were not registered due to an inability of the town clerk to perform her duties; and that the number of signatures required to place the issue on the ballot should be reduced.

"I hope we can get a quick hearing and get this on the November ballot," Partney said Friday. "Otherwise we are going to be forced to pay some elected town officials at least four more years."

If the judge refuses to order the referendum back on the ballot, Partney said, he will circulate petitions again prior to the April 1997 election.

Granite City and its township are coterminous — they share virtually the same geographic and political boundaries. Officials elected to city offices automatically serve the township as well.

Partney, who has announced his candidacy for mayor next April, has said that the township form of government in Granite City is inefficient and is a duplication of services. He said township residents would see lower property tax bills if the township government was eliminated and services were provided by the city or county.

Township officials have said there would be no tax savings because the services will have to be provided by some government entity.

Price funding wins approval

A $2.1 million funding bill to build a visitors center at Melvin Price Locks and Dam won final approval Thursday from the U.S. House of Representatives.

The House voted unanimously for the money to allow the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to start construction this year on the visitors center, Rep. Jerry Costello, D-Bellefonte, said.

The funding bill will go to the Senate next week for its final approval, Costello said.

"The House has given its stamp of approval, and now I hope the Senate acts quickly so we can send the bill to the president for his signature."

Costello has battled for three years to get money to build the center, which is expected to attract 375,000 visitors annually to Alton.

The funding bill also contains a $100,000 appropriation for a feasibility study for a new pump station and ditches in the Wood River Drainage and Levee District.

•Goal

year's drive is focused on the future — not only for the two months of the drive, but also for the long-range future of our community and our children.

"Our campaign theme is, 'Paint a Brighter Tomorrow,'" Orsey said. "That is what United Way is all about; making the future bright and full of promise for our children."

The more than 60 United Way-supported programs are in the business of building brighter tomorrows, he said; they help people overcome whatever obstacles stand between them and their full potential.

The hundreds of volunteers who govern the United Way ensure that the future is not built on false hopes and hollow promises, Orsey said, but on strong fiscal accountability.

United Way administrative costs are 14 percent, which means 86 cents of every dollar contributed goes directly to local agencies providing services for local residents and employees.

The kick-off celebration concluded with 10 children from Frohardt Elementary School sharing some words of wisdom with the audience.

"Leave everything a little better than you found it," was one piece of advice.

That could summarize the ultimate goal of every United Way campaign.

The victim said she was at the home of an unidentified friend in East St. Louis and was going to walk home when the friend said she had a friend who could give her a ride.

The victim said she gave the "friend," — identified as a black male known only as Curtis — $2 for gas. He then drove her past the gas station and the Casino Queen to a secluded area on the levee and allegedly beat her with an iron pipe and raped her.

The woman said she was able to escape and ran away seeking help.

•Retire

said the county may recoup all but $822,000 by eliminating nine of the 41 positions and several of the higher salaries.

The county Highway and Supervisor of Assessments departments have volunteered to cut positions under the early retirement program, Bathon said.

Eight Illinois counties have approved early retirement programs since the incentive was authorized by state law last year, said Jim Monday, director of administration. All eight are much smaller than Madison County.

An early retirement program would be achievable except for the Sheriff's Department, Monday said.

NURSERY & CRAFTS

Where Beautiful Things Begin

We'll admit this arch isn't as spectacular as the 630-ft. x 630-ft. structure that dominates the waterfront. You won't find a photo of it in any encyclopedia. And people won't be coming from all over the country to marvel at it.

But we will admit it's decorative, and it would be a great way to brighten up any room in your home with a fresh burst of color.

It's easy to make and everything you'll need can be found at any Frank's store.

Ready to begin? Here's what you'll need and how to go about it.

Materials Needed:

Area powers' dominance takes downturn

When Edwardsville High School advanced to the Illinois state tournament last November, it marked only the second time that a team other than Collinsville or Granite City had represented the area in the Final Eight.

What made it even more unusual was that Edwardsville's opponent in the sectional final was Highland, another team that was breathing rarified air.

Could this be a sign of things to come? Are we likely to see an O'Fallon or some other area team advance to this year's state finals in November in St. Charles?

"It could be Springfield this year or next," said Edwardsville coach Mark Schwarzkopf, throwing out another team from an area that has never had a team in the state finals. That's because that area's representative has had to always go up against the likes of Granite City or Collinsville over the years.

"I think there is a changing of the guard," says Schwarzkopf, who views talent not only from his position as the coach at Edwardsville but also as an assessor for the Junior Olympic Development program.

"The area is getting stronger. Teams are becoming more sophisticated in their approach to their youth organizations. You can see it in club ball."

"Teams have much more confidence now. They enjoy good training and are doing well in some matches. Look at O'Fallon beating DeSmet last year in the Granite City tournament. Also, Triad advanced far in last year's CYC Tournament, beating Lindbergh along the way. Triad had an excellent freshman team last year.

"It shouldn't be taken for granted anymore that either Collinsville or Granite City will represent the area. I'm not saying it won't happen, but it probably won't happen with the regularity that it has in the past."

Between them, Granite City (10) and Collinsville (4) have won 14 of the state's 24 soccer championships.

Veteran Granite City coach Gene Baker, who owns nine state championships, says the state's all-time career wins leader, isn't ready to concede anything.

"I don't think it was ever a given that either us or Collinsville would be at the state finals," Baker said. "We approached every game as if anybody could beat us. In our tough schedule this year, there are 16 to 18 games we could lose. Our schedule will improve us."

"The way I see it, the picture of the area powers will change in three weeks, and it won't look the same at the end. It's really too early to tell."

The area lost a lot of senior talent from such 1985 powerhouses as Edwardsville, Granite City, Collinsville and Highland. That makes for an interesting '86 campaign in trying to determine which team will come out on top at tournament time.

"There's the potential for more parity than you realize," Baker says, rattling off Triad, Edwardsville, Collinsville, Granite City, O'Fallon, Belleville East and Belleville West as potential state qualifiers.

Schwarzkopf agrees with Baker's assessment about the teams to beat.

If Edwardsville is to make another trip to the state finals, it will count heavily on senior Mark Bugger, a no-nonsense player who has a nose for the goal.

Granite City counters with senior Kyle Briggs, whom Baker describes as "the premier player" in the area. Kyle Briggs, who also plays basketball and baseball at Granite, didn't play high school soccer his first two years, opting for football. He'll be counted on to lead the Warriors' attack.

By Brian Bretsch
Staff writer

Collinsville High must have been having flashbacks to last Saturday's loss to Mascoutah when Granite City began mounting its second-half comeback Friday night.

However, unlike last weekend, CHS held its ground to defeat Granite City 25-18. The Kahoks improved to 3-1 overall and 1-0 in the Southwestern Conference. The Warriors fell to 0-3, 0-1.

The Kahoks came out of intermission with a solid 19-7 lead and quickly made it 25-7 on an 8-yard touchdown run by quarterback Rob Berger. The drive was highlighted by Albers Saenz's 51-yard run.

CHS looked like it was in control until the dreaded fourth quarter came rolling around. GCHS scored 11 points in the fourth quarter to make a game out of it.

"It was bloody wild," CHS coach John Jackson said. "You can't take anything away from Nick (Petrillo's) team. They did a heck of a job. I told the kids (the Warriors) are not a weak team. Granite and Collinsville in whatever sport it is, they are going to be competitive against each other. It is a great rivalry."

"We did some things that really upset me. There was a few times I thought we were trying to give them the darn game."

The Warriors climbed back into the contest early in the fourth quarter with a 12-yard touchdown pass from Rocky Smith to Jeff Hayden. Smith then hit Pete McKinnie in the end zone with a 2-point conversion pass, and just like that the Warriors were back in the game at 25-15.

The Warriors' defense rose to the occasion on the Kahoks' next drive and stopped them. GCHS then marched to the Kahoks' 17-yard line, but the drive was added by two CHS penalties — both occurring on two different fourth-down attempts. GCHS settled for a 32-yard field goal by Smith to cut the lead to 25-18.

GCHS then lined up for an onside kick. The kick bounced off Matt Bakay and Matt Glover recovered for the Warriors. However, two plays later the Kahoks came up with the defensive play of the game, recovering a fumble with 4:29 remaining. CHS ran out the clock for the win.

Petrillo thought the contest was there for the Warriors' taking in the final quarter. "All the emotions and everything was going our way at the time," Petrillo said. "We were excited. How many times do you plan on an onside kick?" (See WARRIORS, Page 4B)

Spikers coast past Collinsville

When you miss very few kill attempts, and very few serve attempts, chances are good you're going to win your volleyball match.

Those were the two main ingredients Granite City used to take a quick, two-game Southwestern Conference match over host Collinsville on Thursday night at Fletcher Gymnasium.

The Lady Warriors rolled over the Lady Kahoks to the tune of 15-6, 15-9 to take the important conference match. However, the scores were a bit deceiving, especially in game one.

The Lady Kahoks are struggling this year, but their play doesn't reflect that in Thursday's match.

"I don't think Collinsville was that bad, in fact they were really quite solid," said GCHS coach Amy Cole. "This is a team that beat (Civic Memorial) in two games, and we lost to CM. So this wasn't really a lesser opponent, we just played well."

The Lady Warriors (2-3) were nearly flawless at the net and at the service line. They hit 92 percent of their serves and nearly 80 percent of their kill attempts.

Cole was also pleased to see her players spread the wealth around. Granite City has no dominant hitters, but if everyone is strong at the net, one isn't needed.

"All of our matches have been close ones this year, and I think the girls are beginning to get comfortable with each other, and they're starting to click," Cole said.

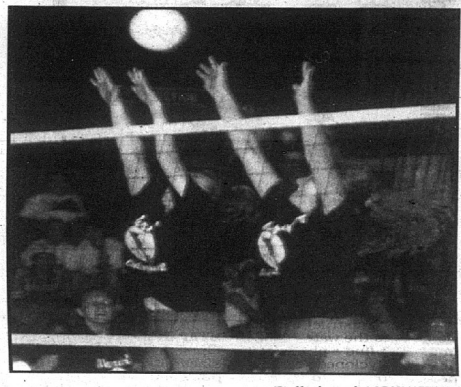

"(Collinsville) had a couple taller players on their JV team, and one of those played in the varsity game, but they weren't dominant in height. They're about like we are, with several girls close to 6-feet. The difference was us working together as a team. A lot of things we'd been working on in practice worked for us (Thursday)."

Cole said she's happy about the way her team seems to pick up on ideas quickly.

"We still have a lot of work to do, but these girls want to learn and they learn things so easily," Cole said. "When you work hard and are eager to learn new things, you're going to improve quickly as a team."

The Collinsville win brightened the week considerably, after the Lady Warriors had lost two straight matches. On Sept. 6, Highland defeated Granite City in three games, and last Tuesday Granite City (See SPIKERS, Page 3B)

Adams outraces field to T-C sprint car crown

Dean Adams Jr. finished as the 1986 Sprint-Car champion at Tri-City Speedway on Saturday after leading every lap of his race in Tri-City's Night of Champions.

Adams, who was leading the points standings entering last week's action, jumped out to a solid lead on the first lap and was never headed.

Dean clinched the title by showcasing his new car painted in DuPont's rainbow colors as used on Jeff Gordon's NASCAR Chevrolet #24.

Adams was equally excited about the win, plus the possibilities of increased sponsor ship next year when the car will be used every week. "It's a thrill to win the championship in such a competitive field," Adams said. "We really went out on a limb building a new car at the end of the season, but we're looking for major sponsorship for next year and wanted to show potential sponsors, both local and national, what we can do to promote their products and services."

"This is a win for our entire crew, and all the work they put into the car the last few weeks and months." Adams' major sponsor this (See ADAMS, Page 3B)

Kahoks' PKs pace way past Warriors

By Brian Bretsch

Some might say an asterisk should be placed alongside Collinsville's 3-2 victory over Granite City on Thursday night.

A total of three penalty kicks were awarded in the contest, two for the Kahoks and one for the Warriors. Eric Edwards converted the Warriors' PK and Nick Redman buried both for the Kahoks (3-2-1).

In a game where emotions have traditionally run high, officials set an early tone that they would not tolerate rough play in the penalty box.

Granite City (2-2-1) was awarded the first PK in the first 10 minutes of the game. The Warriors' Curtis Howard and Collinsville goalkeeper Mike Bettorf got tangled up battling for a loose ball. Bettorf was called for taking down Howard in a scramble. The official ruled that Bettorf did not take a direct angle toward the ball in taking down Howard.

Edwards drilled the PK and gave the Warriors a short-lived 1-0 lead.

"Any coach will tell you we don't like PKs," Collinsville coach Ron Rowden said. "The Kahoks' junior forward Jeff Rhymer used his speed to set up the next two penalty kick goals for Collinsville. Rhymer tried turning the corner in the penalty box when he was taken down at 21:24. Redman easily beat Granite City keeper Mike Bettorf to the right to tie it (See SOCCER, Page 3B) at 1. Lost in the shuffle after the first two penalty kicks was Aaron Thiel's great defensive play. It all but looked as though the Warriors had scored the go-ahead goal when they beat Bettorf. However, Thiel was standing on the line at the far post and cleared the ball away.

Eleven minutes after Redman's equalizer, the Warriors had trouble clearing the ball out of their own end. Rhymur collected a loose ball and turned what looked to be a harmless play into an instant scoring threat when he split two defenders. As he broke into the penalty box, Eric Wilkerson tripped Rhymur. Redman once again converted the PK to make it 2-1.

While GCHS fans will want the asterisk placed next to the Kahoks' victory, it was Rhymur's speed that set up both PKs. The Warriors had trouble slowing up Rhymur the entire game.

"I've got a striker going clear to the goal," Rowden said. "If he's not tripped he probably finishes for a goal. That's the way I look at it."

"If you look at game-breakers, Rhymur's a player who has the experience to turn under pressure. Every game it just seems like he can find the space. You can either chop him down or he goes in and gets a good shot on the net."

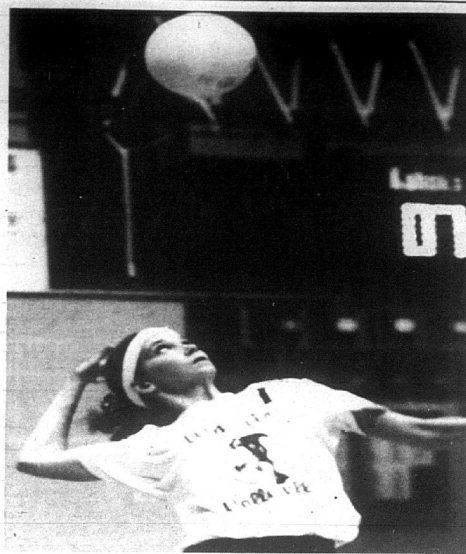

Granite City coach Gene Baker didn't like any of the penalty kick calls. In fact, it was the second game in a row where the Warriors had at least one PK goal scored against them.

Cole wanted to let her concentrate on hitting.

"It's been working well. I think," Cole said. "Tonna is our captain, and she's been doing a good job running the offense. And Laurie can concentrate on hitting."

Overall, Cole is happy with her team's effort. "My philosophy is to always play intense, whether in practice or in a match," she said. "And it hasn't mattered what the situation they've been in, the girls have always played that way. There's been times we've been down 8-0 in a game, and come back to make it close or even win the game."

"They just don't give up."

traveled to McCluer North and lost a competitive two-game match.

"McCluer North dominated the first game," Cole said, "but the second game was very close. We didn't start off quick that night, and they have some experienced players who have played club volleyball. But we came back well."

With the depth the Lady Warriors have at the net, Cole went to a 5-1 set last week, with Tonna Druhe doing the bulk of the setting. Laurie Bohnenstiehl had been sharing those duties, but Bohnenstiehl is a good hitter as well, and

"We felt we got the better of the play. Especially in the second half, we played quite well," Baker said. "It was a penalty kick shootout, I guess, and I've never seen one in the second half."

"I didn't think (the penalty kicks were legitimate), but I'd rather concentrate on the positives of the game from our team. We plan on getting better."

The two teams went up and down the field in the final eight minutes of the first half. The Kahoks and Warriors also continued to move the ball in the second half. He split two defenders but pushed his shot wide left of the goal.

Collinsville's Sean Gregory was robbed on a great save by Smith midway through the half. However, Gregory had a second chance and didn't waste it. He collected a rebound off Smith and buried it to give the Kahoks a 3-1 lead at 65:31.

"What I was happy with was we worked hard for that third goal," Rowden said. "A lot of teams get two on Granite and play for the tie or whatever you've got. We had a great crossing pass and Sean Gregory hustled in and made a beautiful shot."

As the Kahoks were still celebrating, Kyle Briggs made a game of it. He blasted a rocket from 25 yards out at 66:23 that Bettorf had no chance to save.

"My (main) comment is that Kyle Briggs was the best player on the field. I thought the guy just did it all. He usually brings the water out, too," Baker joked. "His shot was just a cannon. We're super-enthusiased with him. If we get some help from other people, we'll be in better shape. Unfortunately, we're playing a lot better teams than them."

"We do not communicate yet, and that's a serious tactical problem. But that's our problem, not theirs. We're not communicating with the officials," Baker added. "We are young, and a little immature, and that's part of it."

year was Dale Hughes, owner of Colormaster Automotive Paint, Inc. Hughes said he'll definitely be back with Adams next year, adding, "Dean is the ultimate driver when it comes to representing a sponsor."

In 1996, team effort has been directed toward the limited class (360 cubic inches) at Tri-City, but along with the new chassis, a new 410 cubic-inch engine is being built for some of the year-end shows at other Midwestern tracks and to give the team greater flexibility in scheduling next year's events.

"That would work for everybody's interests," Hughes said. With the new equipment, the continued support of Colormaster and other current sponsors such as Fluid Air Products and DuPont Automotive Finishes, Adams feels that the major corporate sponsorship he's been striving for will come to fruition next season.

"I think 1997 should be an even more exciting year for our racing team," he said. "Thanks to my family, friends, sponsors and especially the fans for your support in making this a championship season."

Tempo shift slows GCHS comeback

By Rob Raphael
Staff writer

Thursday's Collinsville-Granite City soccer matchup was a much different game than usual between the two rivals.

Normally a nail-biting, tug-of-war affair with more scoring than between the two rivals, this one the only regular-season game between the two this year — was a wide-open scoring fest.

Of course, three penalty kicks can run the score up pretty quickly. Although no confrontations broke out, there were more yellow cards given out than in previous games. Each team finished with three yellows.

Overall, play went smoothly in the first half, with few stoppages. In the second half, though, the Kahoks took their time whenever the situation presented itself.

"I thought in the second half, they consistently delayed. That's OK, that's good coaching and shows good tactical awareness," said Granite City coach Gene Baker. "But we get (yellow) cards for it when we're not even trying to do it sometimes. I guess it's a tough game to officiate."

Rowden didn't speak about the subject of stalling, but he was proud of the way his defense kept the Warriors out of the center of the field. "What I was happy with was our backs made an extra effort in clearing the ball out. When you clear ugly balls out, you should clear them up the line in high, versus just being satisfied with getting the ball and creaming it out of bounds. If you do that, you haven't done your job on defense," Rowden said.

"When you get the ball, you (See GCHS, Page 48) have to make an honest effort to try to get it upfield. We rarely let Granite get in deep with the throw-in."

Baker was less than thrilled about the PKs given to the Kahoks, but he said the overall officiating was a bigger concern.

"I think it was a loosely officiated game," he said. "And on their go-ahead goal, (the referee) refuses a substitution. And the other linesman says, 'Yeah, you were right.' I don't know what the problem was. He's a good official, and a hustling official."

For Baker, there was little to be gained by dwelling on the penalty kicks.

"What can we say? It's kind of like in a basketball game, where one team hits their free throws and one does not. Well, they had more than we did."

Rowden added that the Kahoks might slip up on some teams this year, and that he'll need his big-time players to score the team's goals. Thursday's game featured top-notch play from Granite City's Kyle Briggs and Collinsville's Jeff Rhymer.

"We're kind of a quiet team," he said. "We have just been working so hard at mid-field. When you get to a big game like this, what separates you is your big-game players, like Kyle Briggs. Briggs came up and hit a cannon for them."

"When you look down our roster, it is not always one big player that you see. Sometimes you can look out there at our matchups and say 'Wow, we're solid,' but do we have a player that can break through and make a big play? Jeff Rhymer certainly did for us tonight."

Baker said his team was a little slow to respond from what was not a good effort against Alton on Tuesday.

"We played poorly (Tuesday)," Baker said. "Usually we respond well after that."

They get a little removed from the game sometimes." The Warriors, who were scheduled to play host to Springfield Sacred Heart-Griffin on Saturday, will get another tough test Tuesday when they travel to play CBC.

Meanwhile, the Kahoks appear to be on a roll, having won two consecutive conference games. Collinsville thrashed Belleville West 4-0 on Tuesday, and sits atop the SWC at 2-0.

But Rowden isn't thinking about the Kahoks' position in the conference. There are loftier goals to attain.

"We're looking to compete and consistently improve our defense and attack," Rowden said. "Our goal is to get to state. Once we get to October, by that time we've seen every team we need, to improve on things and stay healthy. So when the playoffs and cold weather come, we are ready to go."

You hope it works, but often times it doesn't (and) they are there to cover. In this case it worked for us. I think at that point in time, our emotions were sky high. We felt we could do it."

Collinsville did a real nice job on that second play and came at weak side, which they hadn't been doing all night. That's where we were attacking. Credit their coaching staff for making a doggone good call at the right time. I think it was a gamble on their part but they made the right call and they shook the ball loose. All of a sudden, your dreams dissipate."

Saenz, who unofficially rushed for 143 yards, perhaps will always remember his fumble recovery that preserved the victory more than his rushing yards.

"We really weren't attacking the (weak side) hard because we knew their tendencies were the other way," Jackson said. "Then they started working the weak side and I think that is going to show. Nick was just trying to make something happen and get something going. When we did, we finally buckled under and did what we had to do. That is something we should have been doing in the earlier drives. As a result of that, we were able to get a big play out of it."

Mike Posey got the Warriors on the scoreboard first. On Granite City's second drive of the game, he took Smith's handoff and raced 73 yards for a touchdown. Smith added the extra point to give the Warriors a 7-0 lead.

CIS answered on its next possession. The Kahoks marched 80 yards on 14 plays and capped it off on Kory Kimbrell's 5-yard run. The Kahoks missed the extra point and trailed 7-6.

It was Kimbrell again on the Kahoks' next drive. This time he raced 68 yards for a touchdown. He finished the game with a 146 yards and two touchdowns.

The Warriors will look to bounce back next Saturday when they travel to East St. Louis Lincoln. The Kahoks will play at Belleville East on Friday.

Autumn rush makes for a crowded house

Fall's movie season in the United States may be even more competitive than summer's, with more than 120 movies set to open between the beginning of September and Christmas.

The majority will debut before the end of November. While some movies will change their premiere dates and flee for safer ground, the fall season will nevertheless be a blood bath. A movie audience that has not grown in years cannot support so many titles, and there are bound to be some momentous bombs.

In the summer, studio executives typically try to counter-program: When a big action movie is debuting, it makes a lot more sense to open a children's comedy or a mature drama on the same date than another action film.

The Walt Disney Co.'s "Phenomenon" premiered alongside "Independence Day" in July, but wasn't hurt by the alien film because "Phenomenon" played to a largely different audience. In the fall, there are so many movies the counter-programming philosophy can't work. Thus, on some weekends, several movies targeted to nearly identical demographics will be introduced.

On Oct. 2, for example, three action films appealing to young males are all set to be introduced: "The Chamber," John Grisham's legal thriller set in Seattle; "The Long Kiss Goodnight," in which Geena Davis plays an amnesiac slowly learning about her violent past; and "Ghost in the Darkness," pairing Michael Douglas and Val Kilmer in a tale of lions and their hunters.

Since fall is typically the season for more sophisticated works, there also will be an overflow of films from quality filmmakers. But they, too, are fiercely crowded.

On Sept. 13, Dustin Hoffman stars in "American Buffalo," the much-delayed and highly troubled adaptation of the David Mamet stage play. The same weekend, however, Allison Anders' "Gas Food Lodging" presents her own art film, "Grace of My Heart," about a songwriter's personal and professional life.

On Oct. 2, the one week before James Ivory's "Howards End" ("Surviving Pleasure," starring Anthony Hopkins in a view of the artist's darker side. And that same weekend brings yet another specialized season, "Big Night," a story about a dying Italian restaurant and the one dinner that may save it. Even Shakespeare must compete with himself in a harried October.

On Oct. 2, there's "Twelfth Night," an English production from stage veteran Trevor Nunn. "Romeo and Juliet," starring American actors Leonardo DiCaprio and Claire Danes, arrives one week earlier. And Al Pacino, directing for the first time, has made "Looking for Richard," a documentary-drama about the staging of "Richard III" due Oct. 1.

The conventional wisdom — is that movies released late in the year are more likely to receive Oscar nominations. Barbara Streisand's troubled (a fired Dudley Moore, a fired cinematographer, a fired editor) "The Mirror Has Two Faces" is set to open Nov. 15. Other films likely to appeal to Oscar voters include "Shine" (Nov. 22), based on the life of a piano virtuoso; "The Crucible" (Nov. 27), pairing Winona Ryder and Daniel Day-Lewis; and "The English Patient" (Nov. 8), Ralph Fiennes in an adaptation of the acclaimed World War II novel.

While there are no natural disasters or extraterrestrial attacks planned for the fall season, there are several high-profile (meaning expensive and star-saturated) projects being pushed forward. The expected blockbusters include Mel Gibson in "Ransom," Michael Jordan in "The Last Dance," and "101 Dalmatians" with Glen Close.

'Sweet Nothing' about crack

Back in Hollywood's stone age, the censors of the film industry's Production Code Board, created by the Motion Picture Association of America, formulated in 1929, stated the dos and don'ts for filmmakers. Among the decrees:

"Neither illegal drug traffic, nor drug addiction, must ever be presented."

The code was strictly enforced for a quarter-century. Stars smoked only tobacco cigarettes on the screen. Hypodermic injections were a thing of the past.

The restriction disappeared in 1957 when Otto Preminger made "The Man With the Green Army." In defiance of the Code, the movie depicted Frank Sinatra pumping large quantities of heroin into his blood.

What hath Otto wrought? An example is "Sweet Nothing," a film devoted entirely to the miseries (and pleasures?) of a crack addict. "Sweet Nothing" is a movie that dwells so totally on dope and its milieu.

Angel Gazetta (Michael Irons) seems to enjoy a pleasant New York life. He has a midlevel Wall Street job, a lovely wife Monique (Anita Loos), a young son and a new daughter. When a fellow worker invites him to join in a deal of selling a modest amount of dope, Angel declines.

His resolve weakens as the bills mount. On the
